Anatomy of a Code: Westlaw

The History tab includes information on earlier versions of the statute, including summaries of changes made by any amendments to the statute.

The Citing References tab lists all sources--including cases, secondary sources, and more--that cite the statute.

The Context & Analysis tab is a curated list of non-case sources that may be helpful for gaining helpful context on the statute, including cross-references to related statutes and secondary sources.

Notes of Decisions is a curated list of cases that interpret the statute's language, organized by important sub-issues related to the statute.

The Table of Contents allows researchers to see the surrounding statutes that may be relevant to their research problem.

The Caption or Heading tells researchers where they're located in the code--title, subtitle, chapter, and individual section--so they can assess that they're in the appropriate place for their research issue.

Currentness tells researchers when Westlaw last updated any changes to the statute made by the legislature into the database; typically, Westlaw updates very regularly, so Westlaw is usually current within the last week.

Anatomy of a Code: Westlaw

The Statutory History Line lets researchers know when the statute was originally enacted and whether it's ever been amended.